Crime Victims' Compensation Fund

What is the Crime Victims' Compensation?

The Crime Victims' Compensation Program, administered by the Texas Office of the Attorney General, is dedicated to helping eligible victims of crime with certain expenses related to the crime. Money for this program comes from court costs paid by criminals and deposited by each Texas county into the Crime Victims' Compensation Fund.

The Crime Victims' Compensation Program is "the payer of last resort" after primary sources of payment — such as health insurance, Medicaid, Medicare, auto insurance, or Texas Workers' Compensation — have been exhausted.

If the court orders the offender to pay restitution to the victim for an expense that the Crime Victims' Compensation has already paid, the victim may be required to reimburse the Fund. If the victim or claimant recovers money through the settlement of a civil suit against the offender or a third party, he or she may also have to reimburse the Fund.

To be eligible, a person must be a U.S. resident with the crime occurring in Texas or a Texas resident who becomes a victim in a state or country without a compensation program (U.S. citizenship is not required); must report the crime to a law enforcement agency within a reasonable period of time, but not so late as to interfere with or hamper the investigation and prosecution of the crime; and must file the application within three years of the date of the crime.
